TORRANCE HAS BOOTH AT EXPOSITION

With every foot of space sold in the big auditorium to many different manufacturers and industries of Long Beach and the harbor district, for exhibition booths, during the Annual Harbor Industrial Exposition, to be held in Long Beach March 12 to 17, the committee in charge will now have time to devote their efforts along other lines, the most important of which is the amusement and entertainment program which will be given daily, each afternoon and evening of the big show. Executive Secretary R. M. C. Dobson, who will have the arrangement of each day's program, reports excellent progress so far. Many of Long Beach's best talents have come forward and offered their services. He is also in correspondence with several well known Los Angeles entertainers and has gone far enough into the matter to be able to assure the public a program of highest merit.

It was learned at headquarters yesterday that Governor Friend W. Richardson would, in all probability, not be able to attend in person, but that he would officially open the Industrial Exposition at noon on the 12th day of March, by radio. He will deliver his opening message to the thousands who gather in the big auditorium, from the state capitol at Sacramento, by radio. The receiving set with a specially constructed amplifier, will be placed on the stage in such a position that the governor's voice will be distinctly heard in all parts of the building. Prest & Dean, the radio experts of Long Beach, will install the set and be in charge of it during the entire week, as it will be used each afternoon to listen in on concerts, prominent speakers and other interesting happenings, which are put on the waves every afternoon.

The handsome silver cup to be awarded to the most attractive booth at the exposition is the means of developing strong competition among the different exhibitors and it is a foregone conclusion that many novel and original ideas will be developed for the occasion. Special excursion rates will be made on all railroads and steamship lines for exposition week. And special arrangements are being made to entertain the largest crowd ever attracted to a similar event in this section of the state.

J. H. Fess was a guest at an elaborate luncheon at the home of G. P. Bassonett at Bell Wednesday.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching
Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Unusual Causes of Mortality in Chicks

Usual causes of mortality in chicks: If there is any one thing more than another which is the cause of failure in the poultry business, it is doubtless the great loss of chicks. Incubation is comparatively simple to raising chicks after they are hatched. Were it not for this difficulty, there would not only be fewer failures, but the average poultryman would double his profits. The question is one that should be studied as closely as any feature of the business, and too much stress cannot be laid upon the importance of it. Too many breeders have allowed themselves to get set in the idea that a large percentage of the chicks are bound to die and that any special effort to check the loss is useless and unavailing. Doubtless of all the chicks hatched, not over 60 per cent survive the infantile stage. Of course there are many poultrymen who do not lose anywhere near this number, but taking it on an average, about one-half of the total season's hatch die before they are on the roosts.

Causes are numerous, some are identifiable by anyone, but causes least suspected are, undoubtedly, the most serious. Probably a large majority of chick deaths, will by most people, be credited or debited to "diarrhea," "constipation," or simply "found dead." These are effects, not causes. Diarrhea and constipation are symptoms of, or secondary results of, diseases of various types. They may be results from too early feeding, over-feeding, injudicious foods, lack of sufficient and proper grit, withholding of water and then allowing too much at once, etc. Quite often the cause of high death rate takes us back several months before the chick was hatched. Disappointment and serious loss is very apt to result when chicks are hatched from eggs produced by hens who are lacking in vigor and unable to produce eggs with sufficient life-giving strength that will give the baby chicks a proper start in life.

Wait Two Days Without Food

Two days without food: Chicks just hatched cannot digest foods and should not be fed for 60 hours from the shell—the yolk they absorb just before hatching being ample for their support for 2½ days, at which time they should have their first feed, and we would lengthen this period rather than shorten it.

Over Feeding

Over-feeding: Many more chicks die from over-feeding than under-feeding. Never feed all they will eat—a little at a time and frequent meals are the best. Beware of the chicks over-eating mash late in the afternoon—if their crops contain food in the morning when they come from the brooder, they were over-fed the day before and a sure sign of trouble ahead.

Comfort Essential

Comfort essential: Baby chicks must be kept comfortable—it is utterly impossible for the digestive organs to act in a normal manner unless the temperature is even and at the proper point. If the chicks are over-heated normal digestion immediately stops, or if the temperature drops below a given point, the food lies in the digestive tract and soon ferments unnaturally. As a result, the chicks come away from the brooder in the morning very thirsty and with their crops puffed up from gases, of the fermenting food which they consumed the afternoon before.

Injudicious Foods

Injudicious foods: Foods that are ground and mixed with water or milk to make a mash are likely to be eaten too rapidly and too plentifully for the good of young chicks. They are also objectionable because they do not tend to develop the chicks' gizzard action. Foods having a great excess of carbohydrates and fats, are injudicious; any great excess in either direction puts too much work on the chicks' digestive organs and causes derangement. Foods should neither be too easy nor too difficult to digest. In regard to the latter, most care is necessary against fibrous food, like hole oats, however, a food too concentrated is very apt to cause "leg weakness," which is caused by over-feeding mash with a low amount of indigestible ballast, or lack of suitable roughage in the ration and not directly to a lack of green feed exercise, outdoor air, or excessive feeding.

Cold Water

The Cause of Chill: Withholding water at any time and then giving plentiful supply is often productive of trouble. Many chicks die from a chill caused by drinking cold water in the morning when they first come from the warm and see that there are sufficient number so that the chicks do not have to crowd in order to reach the water.

THEY HAD "HOT DOGS"

"Aren't we having 'hot dogs' pretty often?"

This was the question asked of George Melford by a member of his cast in the mess tent at Oxnard, Cal., where the Paramount Company was encamped for the making of "Burning Sands," which will be a feature at the Torrance theatre Thursday and Friday, March 8 and 9.

"Uncle George" looked at the rapturous one with his characteristic smile. "Well," he said, "we are tramping around over the 'burning sands' all day, and if that isn't conducive to hot 'dogs,' I'd like to have you tell me what would be."

Wanda Hawley, Milton Sills, Robert Cain and Jacqueline Logan are featured in this thrilling photoplay.
